towerofsenses – an institution of the Humanist association HVD-Nuremberg, www.hvd-nuernberg.de.

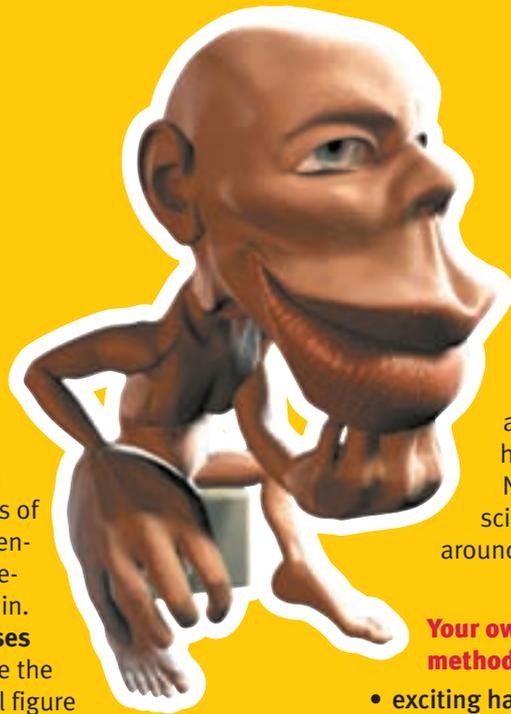

The hands-on-museum to experience, to marvel and to grasp knowledge.

In the Mohren tower,
Nuremberg old town.

Can we believe what we perceive?

The distorted figure of a sensory homunculus demonstrates that the sense of touch from different parts of the body is represented in areas of different size in the brain. In the towerofsenses you can investigate the mascot as a virtual figure and a real life-size model.

New spirit in old walls

The towerofsenses is an interactive hands-on museum in a historic tower in the city walls of Nuremberg with an innovative, science-oriented concept centred around the theme of perception.

Your own perception – topic and method of understanding

- exciting hands-on experiments
- surprising illusions
- fascinating scientific background information

To experience, to marvel, to grasp

- How does our perception work?
- When and why can we be deceived?
- Can we still achieve reliable knowledge?

Be surprised!

Encounter the remarkable abilities of our brains as well as the power and limitations of our senses.

See for yourself how elementary sensory phenomena create a sense of wonder and make you curious for an explanation.

In this playful way experience recent results in perception science and neuroscience.

One of the most meaningful experiences in one's life is to recognize that we can be deceived.
